

“Brilliant, important, exhilarating! As someone who has ADHD, I wish I’d had this book as a kid. A vital read for anyone, and fitting finale to a wonderful series - I cannot recommend it highly enough!”

Daniel Aubrey Author The Dying Light

MOOJAG and the SLOTH GUARDIANS

By N.E. McMorran

The final instalment in the two-time NAUTILUS BOOK AWARD-winning neurodivergent cli-fi series

Moojag and Nema are back for a final roller coaster of an adventure, this time to save Box Hill from total destruction and rescue a bunch of mossy sloths from nasty Brix’s celebration feast. But their new, slow-moving friends have a secret weapon and together they’re all set to prove that saving the Real World literally takes guts!

FOR READERS AGED 9 and over

About MOOJAG

A multi-award-winning three part dystopian, cli-fi mystery with neurodivergent cast, focused on themes of neurodiversity and self-discovery, society and sustainability. The series follows the adventures of its autistic main characters and their utopian neurodivergent community. Based on Box Hill Island, in the future Surrey Isles, following climate catastrophe. The books are aimed at readers 9 years and over, with ‘Auticode Secret’ recommended as a family read due to its thought-provoking content.

whatsappchatinstatwitface: @MOOJAGbook

WWW.MOOJAG.COM

“Magnificent and deeply insightful. This masterful futuristic, timely adventure uses the powerful sloth allegory where slowness is a ‘survival strategy’ to deliver positive representation and affirm that different is good. 10/10.”

William Vanderpuye / Autistic Inclusive Meets

‘A captivating, clever, fun and original story that will make neurodivergent readers feel seen, understood and validated.’

Dr Chris Papadopoulos / London Autism Group
Author Voices of Neurodiversity: An Inclusive Encyclopaedia

About the AUTHOR

N.E. McMorran is an award winning AuDHD British-Cypriot author who previously worked for the BBC as researcher, and taught in London primary and secondary schools. She has also worked with the National Autistic Society and the London Autism Group Charity, as well as a mentor on Westminster’s ‘City Lions’ project.

She founded Spondylux Press in 2019 to support neurodivergent creatives and promote neurodiversity, sustainability and social change. Her debut children’s novel Auticode Secret, winning the Nautilus Book Award in 2021, was inspired by her experiences growing up in a neurodivergent family and the journey to late autism diagnosis. She also directed the award-winning full ND-cast audiobook version narrated by dyslexic actor Indica Watson (Who is Erin Carter? / Midwich Cuckoos / A Boy Called Christmas) and autistic comedian Ria Lina.

SALES & DISTRIBUTION

Publication date: 10 December 2025

Launch Party: Thursday 11th December 5-7pm at Kensington Central Library, London W8. See Eventbrite for details.

Worldwide distribution: Gardners UK / Spondylux Press

9781838097844 Paperback £8.99 (12.9x19.8)

978-1838097851 e-book/Kindle £6.99

Genre: Middle Grade, Solar Punk, Speculative, Cli-fi, Animals, Adventure, Autism, Teaching children about Neurodiversity, Preparing for disaster, Eco-fiction, Multi-generational, Family.

Themes: disability, autism, sloths, neurodivergence, mental health, separation, STEM, climate change, climate catastrophe, fracking, conservation, sustainability, war and conflict.

For more info, ARCS, and interviews
Contact: media@spondyluxpress.com

@nemcmorran @SpondyluxPress

WWW.SPONDYLUXPRESS.COM